As a mostly rural state, it's not easy for gamblers in West Virginia to get to one of the state's five retail casinos. Most residents who want to play table games or slots regularly, in fact, are well out of range. Fortunately, there's now another option in West Virginia — online casinos.

West Virginia legalized sports betting including live and online/mobile betting in 2018. A year later it became the fifth state to legalize online casino gaming. State regulators didn't anticipate online casinos going live until 2021 but the Coronavirus pandemic changed that outlook.

The WV Lottery Commission announced emergency rules in June 2020 to fast track online casinos and go live with some platforms by July. The state delivered on that promise on July 15. DraftKings Casino was the first platform in WV to offer legal online casino gaming. Rival casino BetMGM (Greenbrier) has also now launched and BetRivers followed in April 2021. FanDuel will follow soon.

With the launch of DraftKings Casino, WV officially entered the online casino club. Here's a look at DraftKings and some other online casinos expected to launch in the Mountain State.

DraftKings has offered sports betting in WV since 2019 through its partnership with Hollywood Casino at Charles Town Races. That includes a live sportsbook at the casino as well as an online sportsbook and sportsbook app.

DraftKings launched in 2012 as a Daily Fantasy Sports company, but in recent years branched out to include sports betting and online casino. DraftKings is now one of the largest online gaming operations in the country; it also offers online casino gaming in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

As the first online casino in the WV market DraftKings had the early edge with new players although table games were the only games available at first. Slots and more games have now been added.

BetMGM is the online gaming arm of MGM Resorts International, one of the largest gaming companies in the world. The company also partners with The Greenbrier in WV, and offers mobile sports betting in Nevada and New Jersey.

The company also offers real money online poker in New Jersey through its partnership with partypoker, which includes the Borgata Poker and BetMGM poker skins. In New Jersey, that also includes online casino — allowing for a seamless transition among sports betting, poker, and casino gaming.

MGM has plenty of experience in the online gaming industry and adding online casino in WV is another notch in its belt.

Via a deal with Mountaineer Casino comes BetRivers Casino, the third site to launch in the state. BetRivers is the online gambling arm of Rush Street Interactive. Rush Street owns casinos in several states, including Rivers Casino in Pennsylvania.

The new site comes equipped with slots, table games, and video poker. While the name is relatively unknown in West Virginia, BetRivers is active in several states including Michigan, New Jersey, and, of course, Pennsylvania.

This well-known Daily Fantasy Sports company was launched in 2009. Like DraftKings it has also now branched out to include sports betting and online casino.

FanDuel was purchased by Paddy Power Betfair in 2018, which has been rebranded as Flutter Entertainment and is one of the largest gaming operations in the world. FanDuel is a major part of that in the US.

That now includes PokerStars, FOX Bet, BetFair, and even the television channel TVG, where FanDuel hosts a Sunday NFL preview show. FanDuel launched WV sports betting in 2019 and seems a likely player in online casino gaming in the state.

FanDuel already offers sports betting in WV through its partnership with The Greenbrier private casino resort in the city of Sulphur Springs. The company also operates a live sportsbook at the casino.

FanDuel offers online casino games in New Jersey and an online casino in Pennsylvania as well utilizing Flutter's BetFair platform.

The Wheeling Island and Mardi Gras casinos are operated by the Delaware North company. These two casinos offer sports betting through a partnership with the international gaming company IGT.

IGT offers online gaming, slot machines, and other digital gaming products. In WV, the Delaware North-IGT gaming product is named betly. This sports betting arm offers live wagering at both the Wheeling Island and Mardi Gras casinos.

However a betly online sportsbook offering seems likely, considering Delaware North was the first to offer online sports betting in the state with its short-lived BetLucky app. That offering was through a partnership with Mionni Gaming. That partnership fizzled after Mionni underwent a legal dispute with a third-party technology provider.

With that history, adding betly as a mobile option in WV seems a likely next step. However, it remains to be seen if that will include a complete online casino option.

There's just one option for now but WV bettors now have the option to play casino on their phones or tablets. A mobile casino app makes for much greater ease of use and portability.

Then, when you're in West Virginia, you can simply sign in and jump into your favorite game.

Players can trust their funds are secure with legal online operators. They undergo thorough vetting to secure a license, the same as a land-based casino. Online operators also use geolocation software to make certain a player is in a legal state.

This isn't always the case with unregulated, offshore gaming sites. In regulated markets, player information and funds are secure. Your gaming money is kept separate from a casino's operating funds.

These also still give players an opportunity to play for virtual currency to learn the game. Another advantage of playing online is that you'll often find lower stakes than you might find at a traditional casino. This can help make those funds last longer as you learn the game.

Most online casinos offer no deposit bonuses just for signing up. That means you simply:

There will be certain “play through” requirements for these funds, meaning the cash has to be wagered before it can be withdrawn. But this is indeed free money to play at the tables, slots, or sportsbook.

As noted earlier, traditional regulated online casinos allow players to play for real money or virtual currency. Using play money allows you to practice and become accustomed to the gameplay and casino app.

This is often called “demo mode” and allows you to play for free. At the new DraftKings online casino, players can check out table games right now in demo mode – from Blackjack and Craps to Keno and Three-Card Poker.

Slot machines should be added soon as well and you can also play these in demo mode. Players will find some of their favorites even available for free play.

In the age of smartphones and social media, slot and gaming-type games have become extremely popular. Players can battle it out in casino games for fun. These often offer various virtual currencies to get in the action.

However, real-money online casinos function differently. Just like traditional casinos, these platforms offer a chance to win real money and even major jackpots. Players can cash out real winnings.

This is a critical difference. Players can expect a real casino gaming experience at sites and apps like the new WV DraftKings online casino.

Players looking at live gaming action have a few options to choose from. Here’s a quick look at the state’s live properties.

This Penn National Gaming property offers a wide range of gaming including 2,500 slots, numerous table games, sports betting, a 16-table poker room, and live and simulcast thoroughbred horse racing. The property is located near Washington, D.C., and Baltimore, and is the largest casino in the state.

This property, owned by Century Casinos, is located in the far northern panhandle right between Ohio and Pennsylvania. The facility features 1,100 slots, 32 table games, 14 tables of live poker action, live and simulcast thoroughbred racing, and a William Hill sportsbook.

This is the only private club casino in the country although it is also possible for non-members to play. The casino is located in the southern section of the state near the border with Virginia. It’s small, but features 320 slots and 36 table games as well as a six-table poker room and a FanDuel sportsbook.

The online gaming legalization process began in West Virginia in 2018 when the state legalized sports betting. That also included online and mobile wagering, setting the stage for more online gaming expansion a year later.

In February 2019, the House and Senate approved for the state lottery to begin regulating online gaming. That measure, officially known as the West Virginia Lottery Interactive Wagering Act, became law in March 2019.

Gov. Jim Justice (R) didn't sign the bill but it didn't matter in this case. Without signing, the bill became law after a certain number of days passed. Justice is actually the owner of The Greenbrier.

FanDuel launched an online sportsbook in the state in August 2019 and DraftKings quickly followed. Almost a year later, DraftKings became the first online casino in the state after launching in July 2020.

That allowed WV to officially enter the world of legalized online gaming – the fourth state to do so, not including only online poker in Nevada. Many in the state will be watching to see which new online casinos might debut next.

No. Any casino licensed in WV can only be played within the state borders, although out-of-state players can travel to West Virginia and use the online casino as well. If you travel you can access legal casino or poker sites in other legalized online casino states including:

While offshore, unregulated sites are illegal, players often try to play on these. However, these don't face any regulatory scrutiny and the loss of player funds has been a common complaint. Players would be much better advised to take advantage of legal US online casinos like those listed on this page or in other legalized gambling states.

Sweepstakes casinos can be another option. VGW Holdings operates the Chumba online casino and Luckyland sweepstakes slots as well as Global Poker. These offer players a chance to play for fun with a chance at real winnings.

Sweeps cash online casinos are a cross between social casino apps and real money online casinos. You can play for a virtual currency called Gold Coins. You can also purchase more Gold Coins and will receive a certain amount of Sweeps Coins with each purchase.

This virtual currency can be used to play in separate Sweeps Coin games. Sweeps coins can then be exchanged for real cash prizes.

Chumba and Luckyland online casinos are owned and operated by Limited, a publicly traded company incorporated in Australia. The Malta Gaming Authority licenses both sites as well as the Global Poker platform, which operates in a similar sweepstakes format.

Chumba, Luckyland, and Global Poker are safe gaming alternatives and all three are available for players in the United States and Canada (excluding Quebec).
