Blackjack is the most popular casino table game in the world, so it should come as no surprise that most of the US-facing online casino sites offer plenty of Blackjack versions, including the popular American and European variants. Unfortunately, the vast majority of real money Blackjack games offered by major network gambling sites is played between the casino visitor and the random number generator software, which means that it's pretty much impossible to interact with the other players unless the site offers some type of Blackjack tournaments. As a result, people who value the social aspect of casino games have been rather skeptical about joining online gambling sites. Nevertheless, the recent advancements in live video streaming technology have made it possible for Blackjack enthusiasts to play the game the way it was meant to be played – with a live dealer and in a multi-player setting.

Free Blackjack - While there are many reasons to play multiplayer Blackjack in a live dealer casino instead of traditional single player online Blackjack at a traditional gambling site, there's no denying the fact that live dealer games are simply more expensive to play than their RNG-based counterparts. Running a studio equipped with quality casino accessories and paying all the professional croupiers can get rather expensive, which means that you won't be able to find any sites that offer live dealer multiplayer Blackjack for free. If you want to be prepared for the real deal and you aren't an experienced Blackjack player, you might consider trying the single-player Blackjack games offered by most casinos in free play mode. That way, you should be able to learn the basic Blackjack strategies without actually putting your hard-earned money on the line.

USA Multiplayer Blackjack - Most of the US-facing sites aren't capable of offering live dealer, multiplayer Blackjack due to the fact that the Real Time Gaming software they use doesn't support this kind of functionality. Fortunately, there are a few sites powered by Top Game and other US-friendly casino software developers that allow you to experience the thrill of playing with other Blackjack enthusiasts in an authentic casino environment. While the number of those sites is rather limited, it is worth pointing out that the quality of the games is absolutely top notch. Furthermore, it's worth pointing out that even though none of those sites are licensed and regulated in the United States, they are 100% safe to play on as they adhere to the highest standards in terms of security and customer service.

There is a crucial distinction to be made when it comes to single player vs. multiplayer blackjack. When you are playing live dealer blackjack with other players, you are not competing against those players. You are still playing against the house. The game is only multiplayer in the sense that you are not the only player at the table. In a blackjack tournament, things are a bit different.

Multiplayer Mobile Blackjack Apps - Dedicated multiplayer Blackjack apps for mobile devices such as iPhones, iPads and Android smartphones are different from live dealer Blackjack games offered by US-facing casinos. Some of those apps are 100% software-based and don't allow you to play for real money – instead, these games require you to use virtual credits to compete with the other players for a position on the global leaderboard. Consequently, if you'd like to win real money while playing multiplayer Blackjack on the go, there is currently one option available, and it is for non-USA players only. This technology is in its infancy, but we should start to see it emerging at other mobile casinos in the near future and expand its reach to other markets.
