Before you choose the Bluebird card by American Express please read! I am and have been a bluebird card holder for about 6 years. The reason I got the card was when Wal-Mart had their cash back rewards program when you uploaded your receipts. Anyway, I had recently stayed at a casino hotel and resort and used my card to pay for the room the deposit that was on hold etc... Well, it was a total of about $280. I was supposed to get everything but the $80 back as the difference was only put on hold. If you have stayed in a casino hotel you know what I'm talking about...

For these reasons, casinos that accept debit cards are often the most popular gaming. They're widely available and provide the utmost convenience. Sign up at our recommended real money online casinos, and start playing today!

Great story but the person at fault here is you. Why cancel your card when your "info" was stolen? Everyone knows it takes time to get a replacement card, you could have simply withdrew your funds knowing that you needed it and then deposit it back after your replacement arrives. You'll need the new one to pay bills anyways. Why not buy a new one at the store, then transfer the funds to the one via online? Or if you know someone with a Bluebird card transfer to them. Lots of options, instead of writing a complaint that resolves nothing..

If you're a regular reader of this site, you know that we refer to credit card chargebacks as the "nuclear" option. That's because once a merchant wins a dispute, almost no amount of prodding from a consumer advocate will change the outcome. Your next course of action is to file a lawsuit against the business.

And that's when she disputed the entire charge on her credit card. Her case and its improbable resolution have more lessons than the obvious

Start online casino business

One of the biggest mistakes that consumers make is amping up the drama. “You RUINED my vacation,” or “This appliance DESTROYED my kitchen.” That may play well with friends and family, but it lessens your credibility when dealing with a dispute department. Stick to the facts.

If your appeals fail and if arbitration is unsuccessful, consider filing a complaint with the CFPB. The bureau will share your complaint with the bank or credit card issuer, and it may reconsider its decision. If that doesn’t work, you might have the option of taking the merchant, bank or credit card company to small claims court to recover your loss.

I am sorry for the experience you had to go through. I totally understand how important it is for you to get your refund.

Casinos don’t accept debit cards at tables and slot machines. It would help if you had cash, which you may run out of after gambling for so long. A cash advance lets you quickly get money without leaving the casino. You pay the card issuer back at a high-interest rate in exchange for this convenience.

Enormous, well-funded vacation rental platforms like Airbnb and Vrbo should have a way to fix simple booking errors. A 24-hour refund policy like the airline industry has would do that. But as of now, if you push that “book” button, you’re stuck — even if it’s an honest error.
