Any player of a certain level will have their own tricks, and we are not talking about counting cards or the like, but about being clear at what moment to ask for a card, when it is time to stand, whether to double or divide the bet, manage the bets of safe and the rule of surrender when available, etc. A cool head and not being carried away by emotions is key, but if you want to know how to make a living playing blackjack, consider these tips: Hard and soft cards: The first trick that any blackjack player should know is the difference between hard and soft cards. We are talking about soft cards when you have an Ace in your hand, if you don't have an Ace, they are hard cards. From here, we can follow the basic strategy table, where all the combinations you can have appear, the dealer's card and the most recommended action. You can find the basic strategy all over the internet, with the cheating charts that shows you the best move in every possible play. Another interesting distinction is hard cards versus weak cards: 7, 8, 9, 10 and Ace are strong cards, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 are weak cards. Look for the dealer to go over 21: When we play online black jack for money with the advantage that the dealer is obliged to ask for a card with 16 points or less (this rule can change according to the type of blackjack table), it is recommended to ask for a card if we have a soft hand when the dealer shows a 4, 5 or 6. Although with a single card we obtain a low score, below 16, the double value of the Ace plays in our favor since the croupier is obliged to ask for a card, increasing the chances of being bumped. In this situation you have to be conservative, and if we can we will split the hand. Double the bet: With hard cards we will double with 9, 10 or 11 points and the dealer with a weak card, although if the dealer's card is an Ace we will not double with 11. With soft cards the thing changes: if we have 13 or 14, and the dealer has a 5 or 6; with 15 or 16, and the dealer plays with 4, 5 or 6; or with 17 or 18 soft, if you have 3, 4, 5 or 6.
