Hao's suit is the latest addition to Las Vegas Sands' collection of lawsuits. Last month, the Nevada Supreme Court overturned a 2013 jury verdict that ordered the casino operator to pay $70 million to Hong Kong businessman Richard Suen, who claimed to have tipped the company about Macau's potential back in the early 2000s. Suen alleged Sands promised him $5 million and 2 percent of its Macau casino profits if he would help the company receive a gaming license, but the high court decided there wasn't sufficient evidence to justify the $70 million in damages a jury awarded in 2013 and that a new trial was needed.
