The payout percentage considers all bets, including the ones placed with deposit and no deposit bonuses. When you use the bonus amount to wager, the top online casinos' immediate payouts give you an even better chance to win. That's because you're playing with their money.

The RTP is a theoretical average percentage payout, which shouldn't be taken literally. If you play through $100 today, it doesn't mean you'll get $90+ back. That wouldn't make sense because you'd never actually win. It means that this principle works on all the money the casino makes over a certain period and the biggest percentage is distributed among players. Some Canadian players get nothing or win small amounts. But others win massive amounts of money on the highest paying slots. We're talking about thousands or even millions of dollars.
