If you're willing to sacrifice either of those things, though, they might work for you. House of Jack has an otherwise excellent selection of casino games, several offers to claim, and a rather large $1,000 deposit bonus.

House of Jack is one of the few decent online casinos left for Australians. The restrictive laws that have been introduced in the country are making it extremely difficult for players to find a nice place to wager some money. While it might not have the richest of software or the most lenient of terms, the site can still offer good time and lots of winning chances to their customers. Although it is clearly aimed at Australians, several other countries are also accepted. What should be changed are weekly cash-out limits which are too low at the moment. They are quite strict with regards to what they consider bonus abuse, so players should be very careful when claiming and wagering bonuses.

This is why I said earlier that, while House of Jack's software lineup is good, they should add a few developers. NetEnt and Evolution Gaming would be the first two that I'd add. It would enable House of Jack to expand their offerings.

The other thing I liked is how this list isn't dominated by blackjack or roulette variants. As far as their casino goes, House of Jack didn't go the cookie-cutter route. They don't work with any unique software providers, as that's not possible. However, they do work with a unique blend of providers you won't often see elsewhere. This will give you a mix of games you'd be hard-pressed to find at other casinos.

For example, House of Jack is owned and operated by Vegas Partner Lounge Casinos. This is the same company behind Casino-Mate.com. Our company reviewed them not long ago and gave them a positive rating.

One thing I really liked about their table game selection is that it's not full of duplicate titles. This can be hard to accomplish when you work with as many developers as House of Jack does. They have a table section that looks robust.

A software of optimum quality and diversity is the basis of every good casino, and here there is nothing lacking in this regard. Those who enjoy slots will have the widest selection of top-grade releases: some are classic, others 3D marvels, and in between there is a variety of video slots and huge progressive jackpots like Mega Moolah, Mega Glam Life and Major Millions.

I'll talk about what makes some of these providers unique in just a second. First, here are a few examples of slot machines you'll find at House of Jack.

Security is another important aspect highly regarded by Jack. The casino uses the latest SSL encryption technology to ensure that players' personal information, such as banking, is encrypted. No third parties- even Jack, have access to such information.
