You need to ask yourself, what are you looking for in an online casino? If you want to try out huge amounts of slots, play jackpot games and enjoy the live tables at a live casino, you should focus on brands with a wide gaming selection. Just make sure that the casino has providers like NetEnt, Yggdrasil, Microgaming and Evolution Gaming who are offering hundreds of games that have become the players' favorites.

If you don't like to have many accounts on different casinos and instead want to focus on a really good one, you should check the loyalty programs. Sites that offer prizes when you level up, give cashbacks, have VIP programs and send out exclusive promotions are rewarding for loyal customers. On the other hand bonus hunters who like to jump around and chase offers only need to focus on the best possible deals out there.

Yes, generally speaking online casinos are very safe. There might be some rotten eggs in the mix but they are easy to spot a mile away. What you need to know is: online casino industry is highly regulated, meaning all licensed casinos are constantly under review by the authorities. So you don't need to worry about anything as long as you play at an authorized site.

All brands appearing on our casino list operate under a gaming license. Acquiring the license is a long and expensive process where gaming authorities go through the finances, practices and reliability of the company that is applying for the remote gambling permit. Only after this thorough verification the license will be approved and even after that they will keep an eye on all operators like Sauron in the Middle Earth. The most known gaming authorities are currently the MGA, UK Gambling Commission, Curacao Gaming and EMTA.

Online casinos also need to follow certain guidelines to prevent e.g. gambling addiction, underage gambling and money laundering. So gaming providers don't live in the Wild West. If you ever run into any trouble, you can contact gaming authorities directly and they will assist you further thanks to several dispute procedures. All transactions are processed via well-known payment services such as Visa, Mastercard, Interac, Skrill or Neteller. These services are used by billions of people around the world daily.
