Nebraska casinos online

Online gambling and sports betting has become extremely popular throughout the US for a variety of reasons. First, the current society is interested in being able to engage in gambling whenever its users want to, and there has been a strong push toward regulating and legalizing gambling, both online and in land-based casinos. The same is true when it comes to sports betting.

In Nebraska, this process is rather slow, and the state has not yet been able to legalize online sports betting or online casinos. However, it is still progressing in other ways, and witnessing these changes has been interesting.

To start off, we should note that Nebraska is still very limited when it comes to gambling options. It allows the existence of land-based casinos, but only the ones operated by Indian tribes. It has also legalized sports betting, but it has not yet developed a system for it, nor the proper laws to govern it.

Online sports betting is not currently available, while online casinos are not even legal. Daily fantasy sports are also not a legally available option, although there are websites that provide access to DFS. They are mostly ignored by the authorities, as they are represented by companies that offer DFS gambling throughout the US.

Meanwhile, horse betting is allowed, but only within racetracks in the form of pari-mutuel betting, while online horse betting is prohibited.

Since there are no casinos that have been legalized in Nebraska, residents most often turn to offshore options. Currently these are the top offshore casinos that offer online gambling services to Nebraska residents:

In fourth place, we have Bovada, which is both a casino and a sportsbook. The platform was launched in 2011, which was also when it obtained the Kahnawake Gambling Commission's license. However, after the Commission had a policy change in 2016, Bovada decided to voluntarily drop the license in protest. As of 2022, the platform has been running without a license for six years now, and it has never had any issues as a result of its situation.

Bovada features hundreds of games, with 300 of them being slots alone. It offers multiple payment methods, including cryptocurrencies, and it has a very rich welcome bonus that continues to draw new users in. There are also various promotions and even a loyalty and VIP program for long-term users. Finally, it also has very capable customer support that you can reach via phone, email, or live chat.

Nearing the end of the list, we have BetOnline, it's a comprehensive gambling site that also mostly focuses on acting as a sportsbook, but it does still have plenty of casino games, including roulette.

Its minimum deposit is a bit above average, sitting at $20 when most platforms offer $10, but that is also still rather affordable. The platform supports multiple payment methods, including crypto, and it holds a license by Panama City authorities. It has a great welcome bonus, and plenty of crypto-involving promotions, so using digital currencies might be something worth considering.

Unfortunately no, online gambling in Nebraska is not legal in any form. However, it is still available. As mentioned, there are websites that offer access to DFS, and there are off-shore casinos and sportsbooks that offer access to sports betting and casino games. Offering these services is not legal on the casinos' and sportsbooks' side, and accessing them is legally gray.

Basically, it is possible that you could end up in trouble if you do it, but it is highly unlikely. We, at least, were unable to find a single example of someone getting arrested or punished in some other way for accessing online gambling in their own state, especially when it is offered by an international casino. Keep in mind, however, that it is still risky to do so, as your state does not have control or any form of authority over such websites, so it cannot intervene if you have some sort of a problem with them.

Casinos nebraska online

Essentially, this leaves casinos wide open to just refuse to pay your winnings from betting and gambling or even to return your deposit. From that point of view, it is risky to access them. On the other hand, however, it is extremely unlikely that licensed platforms would try to pull something like that, as they are still licensed and regulated in other countries, and the regulators that have licensed them are keeping a close eye on their behavior, looking for any signs of foul play.

Finally, casinos themselves are unlikely to risk damaging their reputation for a few hundred or even thousands of dollars that they would otherwise lose to you. They work with massive amounts of money, and any winnings that you can make are next to nothing to them, and certainly not amounts worth sacrificing their reputations over.

Nebraska online casinos

Nebraska doesn't have much in terms of gambling history, given that all forms of gambling were banned in the state under the Nebraska Constitution until 1934. At this point, only live horse racing was legalized, and the situation remained unchanged until 1958 when charity bingo received the green light.

Then, in 1985, the first keno operation was launched, and off-track betting was finally added in 1988. The state lottery was approved by the voters themselves four years after that, in 1992.

This was pretty much the last big change until 2021, when Nebraska legalized sports betting, once again through the voters' intervention. However, at the time of writing, sports betting is still not available, as the state is still working on its development and proper laws that would govern it.

Nebraska currently has only five casinos, all of which are owned and operated by the local tribes. The casinos in question include the following:

Home News First State-Licensed Casino in Nebraska Opens Its Doors

A state-licensed casino has opened for business in Nebraska for the first time in history.

The WarHorse Casino Lincoln opened its doors on Saturday morning following a short private ceremony at 10am. More than 100 people lined up outside the property to await the opening. Hundreds more people arrived at the facility throughout the day, eventually prompting a need for overflow parking spaces.

The casino is a collaboration between the Nebraska Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association (NHBPA) and the Winnebago Tribe of Nebraska. Lori Thomas, chief operating officer for the NHBPA, commented on the opening. She deemed it a dream come true and asserted that the facility would help to bring revenue and entertainment to the people of Nebraska.

Officials hope the new casino will also give a much-needed boost to horse racing in the state, with plans in place to significantly increase the number of racing days at the Lincoln racetrack where the casino is situated.

The WarHorse Casino Lincoln is a temporary gambling facility, holding about 850 people and containing approximately 400 slot machines.

A permanent casino is expected to open in the same location in about 18 months. Costing in the region of $200m, it will feature 1,300 gaming machines, table games, a sportsbook, as well as a hotel, event space, and numerous restaurants.

Developers also expect to open a temporary WarHorse casino in Omaha, Nebraska in 2023. WarHorse plans to spend over $300m to develop a permanent casino at Horsemen's Park in the city. The casino operator also plans to do something similar in South Sioux City.

Lance Morgan of Ho-Chunk Inc., the parent company of WarHorse, mentioned the significance of the Nebraska casino license. The company CEO and president said: "We've worked on it for years, and to see it come to fruition it's almost surreal. Like, I'm having trouble believing it."

The casino's grand opening took place almost two years after Nebraskans voted in favor of allowing casinos at the six licensed horse racing tracks in the state. The subsequent legislative bill only received final approval in May 2022.

Before a casino gets the green light, the Nebraska Racing and Gaming Commission needs to look at the potential impact such a facility would have on the local community, other gambling facilities, and the horse racing industry. As a result of the opening of the Lincoln casino, Nebraskans will no longer have to cross the border to engage in casino gambling.

For the longest time, there have been no genuine casinos in Nebraska. Until 2021, casino gambling was outlawed by the state constitution, and while there are five Indian casinos in NE, these are mere Class II venues. Still, if you wanted to legally play proper real-money casino games, Nebraska online casinos have long been available in an offshore capacity, and they still are! These venues legally offer actual online slots, online blackjack, roulette, keno, craps, and more to NE residents.

While voters approved gambling expansion in Nebraska in November 2020, this expansion is limited to turning NE's six commercial horse tracks into "racino" venues with Vegas-style games and sports betting options. As such, NE gamblers will ultimately have five Class II tribal casinos and six commercial casinos to choose from. However, there are zero provisions for domestic online casino options with this new gambling expansion, and local iGaming is still likely several years off.

With the historic shortage of casinos in NE, it only makes sense that the best online casinos in the business would be the best online casinos in Nebraska, too. And that's the case with Bovada. Bovada has been offering online gambling in Nebraska since 2011, and the site has famously never missed a single payout.

With over 250 electronic gambling games as well as a live-dealer casino, Bovada has been the go-to NE casino since Day One. Of course, Bovada isn't just a casino. The site also offers Nebraska sports betting, Nebraska poker (which is not available in any form domestically), and online horse racing betting.

If you sign up to join this all-in-one powerhouse gambling site today, you can take advantage of the 100% Bovada Welcome Bonus for up to $3000 in online casino free plays!

Yes, but only if you gamble with an international casino site. Online gambling in NE is not authorized for local operators, but Nebraska gambling laws and US gambling laws don't apply to venues operating outside NE. Because the NE casino sites serving the state are located outside of the United States altogether, it's legal to bet real money with them.

When it comes to the legal gambling age in NE, there are actually several. The minimum Nebraska gambling age for horse racing and bingo/raffles is 18, while the legal NE gambling age minimum for playing the Nebraska Lottery is 19 and up. Nebraska tribal casinos are 19+ or 21+ at their discretion. Finally, the Nebraska sports betting age is 21+ at all local sportsbooks.

All that said, most of the legit online NE casinos featured here allow you to sign up and play at just 18 years old, and there are no differing age requirements for different gaming markets.

Of course! Now, because the Internet is the Internet, there are going to be bad actors and shady online casinos out there. To avoid these and sign up with a trusted, legitimate Cornhusker casino site instead of Cornhuckster casino site, you're going to have to stick with only the most established, reputable brands.

We've listed those NE casinos here for your convenience, and you'll have a fair, enjoyable experience at any of them.

Still, it's important to know why these specific online Nebraska gambling locations make the grade when others don't. In a nutshell, these destinations can be relied upon because they adhere to all the most crucial online gambling best practices:

Established online reputation for quality + longevity in the industry

If you've ever consulted a Nebraska casino map, you've probably seen that your options are pretty spread out and may not be very conveniently located. That's where online gambling really shines.

As stated, the selection of casino games in NE has basically been limited to bingo and Class II EGMs and VLTs (i.e. "fake slot machines") until very recently. And even now, legit Nebraska online casino options are not on the table for the foreseeable future.

However, if you join any legal online casino in Nebraska featured here, you'll get access to the loosest slots in NE along with the best electronic blackjack games, roulette games, and more:

Live-dealer casino games are the biggest new trend in online gambling, and no legitimate casino in Nebraska would omit these highly sought-after amusements. While electronic slots and video poker and blackjack/roulette sims are all well and good, there's nothing like sitting at a real table in front of a real dealer.

Today, thanks to advancements in Internet technology and live streaming access, you can do that from anywhere in the state. Live-dealer Nebraska casino gambling allows you to watch every shuffle, cut, spin, and throw, and you can even chat with the house and other players at your table in real-time. Just be sure to mind your manners and tip your dealer when you win!

Note: Live online casino games are paid games only. In other words, you can't play Nebraska free online casino games in your site's live-dealer rooms. Also, most legit NE gambling sites do not allow live games to contribute to online casino playthrough requirements.

As the local brick-and-mortar NE gambling scene expands, we're actually pretty interested to get out of the house and check out the new options when they finally launch in 2022 or 2023. That said, there aren't any new casinos in Nebraska being constructed, so we're not going to be able to find any closer options.

Nebraska online casinos

If you live near a casino in Omaha or near a casino in Lincoln (or anywhere else in the state), you're in good shape. However, if you live in a more remote region, online casinos might always be the best option. Still, if you can swing it, you should definitely check out your local retail gambling spots whenever you can.

Note: In addition to the Carter Lake Casino which is technically within IA borders but remains on NE tribal land, there are two Iowa casinos owned by Nebraska tribes: the Blackbird Bend Casino in Onawa, IA (Omaha Tribe of Nebraska), and the Winna Vegas Casino in Sloan, IA (Winnebago Tribe of Nebraska).
