When you load an IGT slot like Fire Horse or Prowling Panther, it uses code and animations that don't require loading, doesn't "eat" much mobile data during this process. Popular online casinos have their Mobile applications with games already integrated, needing even less bandwidth for loading. They also offer instant real money play through the Google Play store.

Reasons for IGT popularity with gamblers:

International Game Technology has been in business since the 1950s, but it was when the company went public in 1981 that it really began to do business around the world. In addition, they acquired Electronic Data Technologies in 1984 which helped to further advance its position in the world of online gaming. IGT powered casino games was first known for revolutionizing video poker, but also became known for the concept of computerized player tracking with the addition of Electronic Data Technologies. In addition, they became one of the first companies to come up with the idea of a reward program for players. Of course, every website now employs these rewards in order to first attract clients and then to keep them coming back. The initial foray into tracking and player rewards has now led to a very sophisticated suite of products.

At the beginning of its activity, the IGT company engaged in the creation of game machines for land casinos and barrels. As a result of this experience, IGT developers were able to use it for online games.

Due to the fact that IGT discloses information about its products RTP to the public, players may choose the game they like with acceptable performance.
