The coronavirus pandemic has upended many facets of everyday life, and that includes what to do for entertainment in places like Las Vegas and Atlantic City. Casinos may look a bit different from the ones you've previously visited in real life and the ones you've seen in classic casino movies such as Casino Royale, Rain Man, and Ocean's Eleven. Casinos across the United States have had to update their policies and rethink what it means to gamble in a hygienic manner in a pandemic. Along with wearing a face mask, practicing social distancing, and not gambling when you're sick, read on for 7 things you won't see in casinos anymore. If you're looking to have Lady Luck on your side, here are the casino games to play if you don't want to lose all of your money.

What you think of casinos has completely changed due to COVID-19. "Casinos will have to plan the use of space in their facilities due to the increased risk of catching COVID-19 carefully," Dr. Nikola Djordjevic MD, medical advisor at HealthCareers, tells Reader's Digest. "Because most of the casinos are indoors, there's an increased risk of spreading the virus. I'm sure they will have to decrease the number of slot machines present in the facilities and limit the number of people allowed to enter the facility." Casinos aren't the only entertainment venues that are changing. Here are 9 things you won't see in theme parks anymore.

Gone are the days of being able to enter certain casinos without thinking about your health. At Tonkawa Hotel & Casino, located in Oklahoma and operated by the Tonkawa tribe, there's an extensive health and safety guideline posted on their website for reopening during COVID-19. "Non-invasive thermal cameras will be placed at Hotel entry point to the casino," reads the guideline. "Any person displaying a cough, shortness of breath, or other known symptoms of COVID-19 or a temperature above 100.0°F will not be allowed to enter the facility."

When you think of casinos, along with nightlife, entertainment, and cards, you probably think about gambling chips—you'll want to wash your hands after handling those, plus after touching these 10 things. But how will these chips be cleaned during a pandemic? Various casinos have various methods of cleaning poker chips. In Las Vegas, El Cortez Hotel & Casino laid out a reopening plan which involves cleaning chips. "Over 30,000 casino chips were professionally cleaned and disinfected by an outside company," according to their guidelines. "Each chip was then coated with an EPA registered anti-microbial solution that prevents viruses from attaching to the surface."

At El Cortez Hotel & Casino, acrylic shields have been installed in various areas around the vicinity including the front desk, the casino stage, and the gift shop. For your own protection, here's the difference between a face shield and a face mask and which one is better for you to use.

You'll see many changes on the casino floor, but you may not see what goes on behind the scenes with air ventilation maintenance. "With the heightened health and cleaning protocols due to the pandemic, air duct cleaning will need to be top of mind for casinos when it comes to safety procedures. Proper maintenance of air ducts will get rid of all harmful contaminants and pollutants to one's health," John Ward, account executive at Mold Busters, tells Reader's Digest. "These can include mold and asbestos, which can often trigger allergic reactions or serious illnesses. By maintaining the acceptable indoor air quality within casinos, the health and safety of those in attendance will be enhanced." Concerned about indoor air quality not only on the ground but in the air? Here's the truth about recirculated air on airplanes.

If you're used to using paper coupons, you may need to get used to the idea of paperless transactions, and not just for hygiene purposes. According to the Century Casino Cape Girardeau website reviewing changes due to COVID-19, one change is for the casino "to go paperless in order to reduce the amount of person to person transactions.” If you already had cash coupons, don’t worry—there’s a solution for that, too. “For guests who had valid cash coupons during our closure, we’ll be adding replacement offers to your account by adding points that you can redeem for cash or you can leave them on your account to use as downloadable credit starting in August.”

In a lavish Belle Epoque building that dates back to 1863, Monaco’s Casino de-Monte Carlo is widely considered the most luxe casino in the world. It’s appeared in golden-era Hollywood films – To Catch a Thief, Never Say Never Again, and GoldenEye, to name a few-- and continues to be a playground for the rich and famous. On any given night, you’ll spot Ferrari’s, Lamborghini’s and Rolls Royce’s roll up to the stately Old-World entrance—all sweeping steps, onyx columns and marble statues. Inside, a Rococo ceiling, stained glass window and dramatic frescoes serve as the backdrop to high-stake games of French Roulette, poker and Trente et Quarante.

Now in it’s 268th year, the Casino Baden-Baden is truly the stuff of legends. Marlene Dietrich once called it the most beautiful casino in the world and Fyodor Dostoevsky immortalized it in his novel, "The Gambler." One look at its stunning French-style interiors and Black Forest setting and it’s clear why. Modeled on the French royal palaces, the club is festooned with dripping crystal chandeliers, heavy scarlet curtains and tall gilded mirrors. Just be careful not to get too taken away by the grandeur--with not a single clock in the place, it’s easy to lose track of time (and your money).

You could spend an entire weekend in the casino at The Venetian Macao and still not see it all. There are 3,400 slot machines, 800 gambling tables and a separate arena for entertainment and sporting events that cover a total of 550,000 square feet. But size isn’t everything, and the casino takes an equally over-the-top approach to interior design. The East meets West aesthetic combines exotic woods, Chinoiserie murals and opulent crown moldings—all arranged according to the principles of feng shui, of course.

To gain entrance into The Ritz Club, you’ll first need to complete a lengthy application form and drop £1,000 in membership fees. But considering the casino’s reputation as the poshest gaming hub in London, the cost may justify the reward. Among the lucky few to be admitted? Dress the part. For men this means a jacket and tie; for women, a dress or other formal evening wear. Order a Vesper martini (naturally, it’s served 'Shaken not Stirred'), and try your hand at the likes of roulette, blackjack and Punto Banco. Or, simply sit back and take in the room’s sumptuous interiors: resplendent bas-relief panels, domed ceilings, mahogany furniture and curtains draped with Jacquard and damask silks.

When it comes to Las Vegas, there’s no shortage of casinos at which to channel your inner high roller. But here at Jetsetter, we place our bets at the trendy Cosmopolitan hotel. Not only is the crowd among the hippest and most beautiful on the Strip—there’s also a three-story bar draped in two million crystals at the center of the casino floor. The effect is that of gambling around a massive glittering chandelier. If that doesn’t set the stage for hitting the jackpot we don’t know what does.

In the 1960s, The Clermont Club was Britain’s most exclusive gambling club, playing host to some country’s richest and most influential aristocrats—among them, the Lord "Lucky" Lucan, the Earl of Derby and the Duke of Devonshire. Fast forward to 2016, and while there’s a slim chance you’ll run into any members of the British royal family, the club in London’s Mayfair district remains as much a sight to behold as ever. Baroque décor, a wrought iron balustrade and spiral staircases all set the stage for high glamour, as does the club’s well-heeled clientele. But as one of the smallest casinos in the city (there are just six tables in the whole place), even us common people are given the royal treatment.

It may only be six years old, but The Hippodrome Casino is one of our favorite places to get lucky. Open 24-hours a day seven days a week, the three-story building offers electronic and table games, plus some of the best live entertainment (think: cabaret, magic and music) in all of London Town. In an extravagant design redolent of old European casinos, the club has soaring ceilings, massive globe-like chandeliers levitating above the room and a rich color scheme of gold and deep magenta.

Crazy Time is not just an average online game in casino. This is game show and a popular slot with a money wheel of luck, which resembles the well-known wheel of fortune. The dealer spins a large upright wheel with 54 sectors. The goal is to guess the sector where the wheel will stop at the end of the rotation. No computer algorithms. No cheating. Only chance and luck!

Casino pachinko

Crazy Time is a casino classic game. A game that is loved by millions of players around the world and every year it is consistently included in the list of the most popular slots in various online casinos.

In addition to this, there is a video slot on top, which makes it possible to receive certain bonuses. In the case of Crazy time, the game is played by the croupier, which creates an unrivaled atmosphere of a real casino.

Pachinko casino

The main difference between the Crazy Time slot is that there are various bonus sectors that represent individual mini-games that bring very huge winnings to the winners.

The rules of the Crazy Time game are not difficult to remember. So, remember the main points:

Casino pachinko

The history of the sectors that have played can be viewed in the lower right corner of the game screen. You can watch the game Crazy Time for some time without placing bets and familiarize yourself with the rules. This is convenient because it will give you the opportunity to better study the features of an online game. Since there is not demo version of the game, this is a way to go.

Each bonus sector is a separate mini-game. Crazy Time bonus minigames bring you the biggest wins. There are four of them in Crazy Time:

Casino pachinko

The difference is in the number of sectors on the drum. Cash Hunt and Pachinko each occupy 2 sectors on the reel. Coin Flip has 4 sectors and therefore has the highest chance of being dropped. However, the main bonus game Crazy Time is 1 sector, that is, the minimum chances of falling out in comparison with others, but provides the maximum win.

The Cash Hunt minigame is a 108 random multiplier field. For the allotted time you need to choose one of them. At the end, a signal sounds to determine the final amount.

Pachinko casino

After Pachinko drops out, a wall with many stakes appears on the screen. There are 16 values at the bottom, each of which is a multiplier. The croupier launches the ball and, depending on where it falls, determines the final win. The maximum multiplier is x10,000.

Coin Flip is like playing a coin. The screen displays two circles - blue and red, on which the winning multiplier is randomly determined. The croupier launches a chip colored in them. A win or a loss will be awarded depending on the side drawn. The default maximum multiplication is x100.

After Crazy Time drops out, the croupier moves to a separate room with an even larger wheel. The player needs to choose one of the 3 markers on top of the reel. It is necessary to catch the multipliers as many times as possible by choosing one of the labels. The maximum bonus in the Crazy Time mini-game is x20,000.

It is worth remembering about the video slot. If before that a multiplier for one of the bonus games fell in the video slot, then the winnings will be increased according to its face value. This is an amazingly huge amount of money to be won in Crazy Time online slot.

Crazy Time is currently officially available for fair play in several online casinos:

Pachinko is one of the most famous arcade games out of Japan. Bright, colorful and happily noisy, pachinko parlors are such a huge Japanese icon that they are bound to be in the picture every time there is a scene set in Tokyo.

Casino pachinko

You might have seen it in the background of movies, like Lost in Translation and Wolverine. The Enter the Matrix video game features a pachinko machine with footage from the Trilogy itself. And now you can play Pachinko online.

Originally, pachinko is like a vertical pinball machine, except you have a ton of steel balls rolling down a maze of nails. You let the balls roll down and hope that they land in the right boxes at the bottom, which can include bonuses with more balls. The player can then exchange the wins for different prizes at the pachinko parlor.

Pachinko casino

Now, you won't quite get the bustling excitement of the pachinko parlors online, nor would you get the thrill of pulling the lever to launch the balls down the machine, but gaming studios have been developing slots with pachinko as a side game, and there's even pachinko bingo. Unlike the one at the Japanese parlors though, you can win real money with these games.

The closest to the real thing though is probably Plinko, a crypto game that pays out in digital currencies like Bitcoin, Ethereum and Litecoin.

Pachinko casino

Pachinko at online casinos is a specific game from Neko Gaming in partnership with Microgaming. It plays more like a bingo game and it's easy to get started. You can play Pachinko for free at these sites and see how you like it before opting to play for real money.

The original Pachinko is like a mix between a vertical pinball machine and a slot machine. However, it differs significantly from the pinball game we know in the West. To begin with, there are no flippers to save the ball from dropping. Then, instead of just one ball, there are several hundreds of tiny metal balls, which usually have a diameter of just 1 mm.

To play, you drop the balls from above, or depending on which variant of the machine you're playing on, you might launch the balls with the lever. The balls then move down a maze of pins, and your goal is for as many balls to land into the catcher at the bottom, which is basically a hole. The balls that land in the catcher can be exchanged for prizes.

The pattern of the pins can vary, and since the '60s, there have been so called "tulip catchers" which have mechanical flippers that open and close. These tulip catchers can change the path of the balls or capture them for you, depending on your skills and luck. Some catchers can give you more balls, which is the equivalent of getting a bonus. More modern machines have added a variety of electronic features with video slot elements, and there are all now pachinko machines with all sorts of different themes. Whether you're playing on an old school pachinko machine or the newer electrified version, the balls that land in a catcher are your winnings.

Casino pachinko

There are even newer versions of the game called Pachislots, which have become hugely popular. These look just like regular 3 reel fruit machines. The difference is that instead of pressing a button to spin the reels, you have to press a button to stop the spinning reels at the right time. The delay between pressing the button and the reels stopping is usually less than 0.19 of a second. A high degree of skill would definitely be to your advantage!

While there are no regulations in Japan governing online casinos, gambling – with the exception of sports betting – at land-based establishments has traditionally been illegal in Japan. That's why the pachinko balls are exchanged for prizes at the parlors rather than for cash.

Pachinko casino

Although it's not quite the same as sitting in front of a machine inside a busy gaming hall in Tokyo, you can easily play pachislots at online casinos. The most well-known and popular online pachislot is Pachin Girl from EvoPlay.

If you've ever played slots, you will find Pachin Girl easy to get into. Even if you've never played slots before, it's easy to get started.

Casino pachinko

Basically, when you press the Start button, it launches some balls that fall down a maze, just like in a pachinko machine. Balls that get caught by the pigs on the bottom of the screen are then shot into the bosom of the rather cute Pachin Girl. Each ball that Pachin Girl gets will spin the 3 reels in the center of the screen. And just like with regular slot games, there is a Wild and a Scatter symbol to help you form a winning payable or trigger a bonus round.

Online casinos like 7Bit and Woo have seen a fan base growing around the Pachin Girl slot. So while Pachin Girl is still the only pachislot available at online casinos, we're expecting more developers will start making pachislots to bank in on this new game format!

Casino pachinko

The history behind this iconic Japanese game starts in 1920s. Pachinko was originally a children's game called "Corinth", which is named after the American game Corinthian Bagatelle, in which the goal was to get a ball past a set of wooden pegs. Japanese billiards, where players have to roll a ball up a piece of wood and try to get them into the highest value holes, were also a source of inspiration. By the 1930s, the game had been widely adopted by adults in Nagoya and pachinko parlors started to emerge.

Traditionally, pachinko was a purely mechanical game with bells built into the machine. Matched with the maze of nails, it does get pretty noisy, especially when you have hundreds of these machines lined up one after another in the pachinko parlors!

Pachinko casino

One of the reasons why pachinko parlors became such a mainstay in Japan was that gambling used to be illegal there, with the exception of sports betting. Instead of paying out in cash, pachinko balls were exchanged for prizes, which could range from candy, to cigarettes to bigger ticket items, such as a bike. Most players will opt to take the prize and then exchange them for cash at a nearby establishment instead. It was a handy workaround the regulations!

Although gambling with real money has traditionally been illegal in Japan, there has been a liberalization in the laws and Osaka City will be partnering up with MGM Resorts International to open a casino soon.

Casino pachinko

There is also a game called Pachinko developed by Neko Gaming that can be found at online casinos. However, it plays very differently and is more akin to an instant bingo game with 90 balls and an Asian theme. It bears little semblance to pachinko or pachislots. Neko Gaming is a subsidiary of Microgaming, and you can easily find this game at Microgaming casinos.

Neko actually means cat in Japanese, and their Pachinko game features the famous Maneki-Neko, the Japanese cat that is supposed to bring good fortune.

Casino pachinko

Neko Gaming's Pachinko is pretty straightforward. Set your bet size, press Start, and some bingo balls will roll down. If you can fill the bingo cards with the specified patterns shown at the top of the screen, you win. Of course, that's not it and there are also some special features too.

Being more of a bingo game rather than actual pachinko, it means there's a jackpot in this Neko Gaming production. And this Pachinko jackpot is worth a rather impressive 5,000x your bet size.

Pachinko casino

The Pachinko bonus game is triggered when you fill in an outline pattern. The bonus round contains 5 levels. At each level, there are different Maneki Neko figurines to choose from, each containing multipliers. The multipliers increase with each level, up to a maximum of 550x. As long as the figurine you choose has a multiplier, you can progress to the next level – if not, you will exit and go back to the base game.

You will also get free balls, which don't cost you a penny. It's sort of like free spins and it gives you extra chances at winning.

Casino pachinko

This is a golden ball and acts like a joker or Wild symbol in a regular slot game. That means it can substitute for any number to help you make a winning pattern. The golden ball appears randomly during the extra balls phase.

The closest game you can get to the “real deal” that you find in pachinko parlors in Japan is Plinko. The format of the game is the mostly the same, with balls falling down a maze of pins. The main difference is that every slot that the ball falls into comes with a multiplier, and you get paid out in real money. Plinko is only available at crypto casinos like Stake, so get your digital cash ready.

Casino pachinko

Otherwise, the Pachinko from Neko Gaming is really more similar to a bingo game than anything else. The pachislot Pachin Girl is closer to a slot although it is clearly inspired by the new pachinko machines in the land of the rising sun.

If you look around online, there is always the odd machine up for sale. It’s a heavy machine though, so be ready for the shipping costs. Of course, you would also have to figure out the prizes for yourself, which probably makes it less fun. The easiest way to enjoy the arcade game is to play it online.

Casino pachinko

You can play Pachinko for free at the online casinos listed on this page. Whether it’s Plinko, Pachin Girl or the Pachinko bingo you’re looking for, the free play is obviously in demo mode. If you want to win real cash, then you would have to put down a real money bet.

As there are different Pachinko inspired games at online casinos, the answer to this question depends on which game you are playing. Pachinko by Neko Gaming has a jackpot prize of 5,000x your bet size which means you could in theory pocket $50,000. Meanwhile, Pachin Girl has a top prize of $25,920. Plinko, like other crypto games famous for their high payouts, could potentially make you $2.5 million richer.

I’ve been working in the online casino landscape in Malta for more than 10 years and have seen how the industry works from customer service roles to the backend of the business. While I am lucky enough to call myself a native on the sunny island called Malta, I also enjoy travelling and have travelled across Canada! After wandering through the great white north, I have decided to share my knowledge and now work with Canadian players to compile accurate casino reviews to help players navigate through the hundreds of gaming sites online.

You must be at least 18 years old to use this website. Online gambling is illegal in some countries. It is the player’s responsibility to review local online gambling regulations; this site is not responsible for your actions.
