Reading our software provider reviews is the easiest way for you to get a professional opinion of any slot provider. However, there are a few tell-tale signs that you can use to evaluate slot providers. A slots company should have games that load well on mobile, have good graphics and fun themes, and have reasonable min and max betting limits. Games by good software providers will have high RTPs and will test positively when audited for fairness. The rest is subjective. Do you like progressive jackpots, low or high volatility games, a certain number of reels/paylines or specific game features? Test out a few casino software providers online and you'll soon find your top options.
