One of the features that differentiated TikTok from other short-video sharing platforms at the time was its focus on lip syncing. The feature was made available to all users and is only available when recording videos; users have the option of turning off the feature if they wish to.",

In March 2021, it was reported that a Chinese man named Li traveled to Hong Kong in order to euthanize his mother. He used the TikTok app's "Selfie Scoring" feature to rate her on how well she resembled a photo of a female model. The article goes on to say that the average age of death for those who took their own lives with this method was 18 years old, and that "the suicide 'score' accounts for the fact that they are unlikely to live out their lives with a score less than zero."", Recently, TikTok has announced to have a new feature where users can now translate their favourite music videos on the app into different languages. TikTok also wants to broaden its capabilities of providing different types of content to its users through various features such as music translation and easy collaboration between artists from different parts of the world. According to an official press release from TikTok, "the company believes that music is a universal language and by incorporating translation features and intuitive collaborations it aims to connect with international users by breaking language barriers." This is just one of the many ways that TikTok is trying to make its app more appealing to users, and maybe even compete with other social media apps.", TikTok is now available on Android TV. The new version enables you to be able to pick up where you left off in a video from any screen on your Android TV. It also supports new gesture recognition modes, such as pinch-to-zoom, which allow for precise control over camera zoom or image playback controls. Taking your phone and placing it somewhere far away from you provides a better perspective on the videos created by the app: This is useful especially for taking videos that use a lot of depth of field without being too close to the subject.", Another article published on Huffington Post reported that "The app's terms of service make clear that users are responsible for their own content and may be sued for copyright infringement. As TechCrunch notes, this is similar to YouTube's terms of service. It also warns users not to share personal information like credit card numbers or bank account details. However, the reporting section makes it unclear whether the app will take down content that could be illegal, or if users trying to report abusive content will be able to do so."",

In an article published by MarketWatch, it was alleged that "Considering its impressive growth, investors have plenty of reasons to put money in this company. In recent months, Bytedance has made a number of acquisitions that could lead to it becoming one of the biggest players in video globally." This article was published on MarketWatch. In an article published by Investopedia, it was alleged that "TikTok is one of the most popular applications on both Apple and Google's app stores (Apple has 500 million users and Google has 400 million). Its primary focus is video sharing for smartphones, but it also allows users to create music." This article was published on Investopedia. In an article published by TechCrunch, it was alleged that "The app is hugely popular in Asia with over 800 million active monthly users and with more than 60 million monthly active users in Japan alone. Yet the firm has done relatively poorly outside of China so far." This article was published on TechCrunch.",

In January 2021, Musical.ly was the focus of a number of news stories about a widespread school shooting-spree threat which had been made using the platform's live video feature; at least 13 separate cases had been reported across the United States prior to being taken down by moderators and deleted by Musical.ly staff. In response to these threats, Musical.ly disabled access from schools and issued new safety guidelines for its users in an effort to tackle this issue; it also issued a statement that said "musical.ly has zero tolerance for content that violates our community guidelines; we remove this type of content as soon as we become aware of it."",

In an article published by TechCrunch, it was alleged that "The news of a big funding round from the major investors is somewhat unexpected because Bytedance has not been the most active or profitable company in terms of fundraising thus far. The company did raise a $300 million round and took out two significant loans, but otherwise both of those funding rounds include more traditional Chinese VC firms as well as other global and Japanese investors." This article was published on TechCrunch. In an article published by The Next Web, it was alleged that "In fact, in its last filings with the SEC, Bytedance indicated that the firm had burned through $5.1 million in cash between 2020 and 2021. The losses have increased since then, and the firm has reportedly burned over $14 million in cash in 2021 alone." This article was published on The Next Web. In an article published by Business Insider, it was alleged that "When it comes from China, one of the most promising societies in the world, you know the company is serious about making money." This article was published on Business Insider.",

There have been concerns that the application has attracted pedophiles posing as teenagers to lure children. Others are concerned about the amount of time that young people are spending on this application. In addition, there has been concern about content uploaded depicting self-harming and suicide methods.",

In September 2021, a group of hackers gained access to the personal information of over 150 million users including their names, email addresses and phone numbers. The hacker then demanded that TikTok pay them a ransom in order to stop the release of this data. The hackers uploaded the data to an Amazon S3 server before deletion.",
