The reason for this is that TikTok's servers are kept on a remote server in China which may prevent or slow down the location of the app in order to improve the quality of videos.",

A study published in June 2021 by researchers at University College London (UCL) revealed that TikTok's videos were found to be "gender stereotyped, objectifying, and often [showed] normalization of smoking and alcohol use" and also used hashtags in their videos related to body weight control, eating disorder recovery, sexual violence, sexuality issues and gender identity issues. The study goes on to say that children and adolescents are a primary user demographic for this app, and that the app uses "emotional manipulation" to "sustain engagement".",

You have to install the TikTok app on your mobile device or computer to be able to access it. You will also have to create an account so that you can log in using this account if you don't already have one. You should create an account on the app so that it can automatically detect where your mobile device is and let you access it wherever you are as well.", TikTok has been criticised for allowing profanity in some of its videos, as well as encouraging some of its videos to be posted publicly. This is because casual profanity does not have the same impact or consequence in Chinese culture as it would otherwise have in English or American culture. There are many examples of offensive, inappropriate or dangerous behaviour on TikTok, and some users have found it difficult to identify when this behaviour is acceptable and when it is not. Some of this behaviour could be seen as encouraging users to behave in a similar way if they are in a similar situation.",

The concept of the app is very similar to Instagram's live feature in that users can post stories on a daily basis to showcase their lives through videos or pictures. On August 8, 2021, TikTok has acquired Musical.ly in a deal that was worth $1 billion. Musical.ly is the second acquisition that TikTok have made since their 2021 acquisition of short video app Flipagram. This acquisition will allow for the merged app to grow its user base to over 200 million as opposed to just 150 million before this deal happened.",

In 2021, TikTok's users were also accused of using the platform to distribute child pornography. It is not clear how this content gets uploaded to the app. The problem of inappropriate content within TikTok has been raised by CNET and BBC. In April 2021, a 22-year-old man from India was arrested for posting videos on TikTok that feature children begging for money while in some cases asking people to raise money for their education. The suspect also offered a teacher as a 'prize' to any child that could be convinced to send him money via a UPI payment.", TikTok is a free download for Android and iOS devices. The app contains advertising which is targeted based on a user's interests, age, gender and location. Some of these ads are geared towards brands while other can be TikTok videos themselves. It also collects personal information from users including email address, ZIP code and phone number in order to let users create an account with the app. This information is given by users voluntarily when signing up for an account or creating a TikTok account through other social media sites such as Facebook and Twitter. TikTok also collects information regarding the user's location, what device they're using, the type of device and the date when their account was created. The app may collect information regarding the ads that the user has engaged with and in-app activity, if applicable. If you are under 13, you cannot create a TikTok account on your own but are able to do so through a family member.",

In an article published by The Washington Post, it was alleged that "It's so popular among young people even that the Chinese government is now trying to ban it." It continued by saying that "The app, which started as a music-sharing app, has rapidly grown into one of the world's largest social networks for young people. It has a wide user base in China and Asia but has also gained popularity in Europe and the United States. But some people in those regions are concerned about whatever is happening on TikTok. They say it is addictive, and they worry it can be used by adults to groom children or teenagers." This article was published on The Washington Post.",

After the BBC launched its "Ask Me Anything" series, TikTok released videos that featured celebrities such as Tyler Oakley, Michelle Phan, Rohan Nadkarni and Prince Royce. The videos were branded with BBC's logo and linked to the channel on the app. The company also introduced new features such as interactive filters and Facebook Live support so that users would be able to stream live and chat with their viewers on the app. The company allowed British users to register using a British phone number and no longer required people to verify their account with a government-issued identification card. In an interview with "The Drum", TikTok's head of brand, Alex Hofmann, said that the company was working on becoming more accessible in other countries by making it easier to sign up and easier for users to find content that they are interested in. In an interview with "Digital Trends", Hofmann added that the company would be bringing the app to places such as Punjab and Kerala where he felt there was a strong internet presence. In early October 2021, TikTok released its Android app in Mexico. The app was launched after a partnership with Telcel. Telcel announced that they would be using the app to show user-generated content in their free time slot. In addition, the company said that the app would be available through free download on their website as well as certain partner websites. The company later added support for Spanish along with an automatic translation option so that users could still use the app despite not being able to speak or read it. On October 15, 2021, TikTok was released in Australia and New Zealand under the name "Musically". The company stated that they wanted the new name to reflect their goal of giving everyone a platform to express themselves in their own unique way. The company also announced that they would be continuing to improve the app by adding features such as a dark mode and a feed for creators to share their work with their audience.",
